CRAFT Day 3: Train Signals Lantern

Supplies:

Black cardboard cutout, plastic packet of parts and instructions

The instructions for today's craft are in the plastic bag. Tip: If you have more than one child, you'll want to label whose is whose since this craft will end up nearly identical to the next one. Let's say a train was going through on a foggy night? How might the signals help the train engineer be bold?

Chew! Chew! Snack Suggestion

Day 3: Rocky Trail Trail Mix

Supplies:

mini pretzels, M&Ms, granola, chex cereal, etc.

It's really not VBS without some trail mix. Use your own favorite combinations or raid the pantry with whatever you've got. mix together in a bowl and separate out into baggies for servings— save some for a stroll later. But this crunchy stuff isn't the easiest thing to eat, is it? Today we talked about boldness, bold like a powerful train going through rocks, and like Jesus' power flowing through his disciples. Sometimes we think of Jesus as only mild and comforting, but He has the almighty power of God! How can that power through us help us not be timid— timid about chomping trail mix, or talking about our faith, or anything?
